Apprentices in dressmaking, tailoring and millinery are not required to pay any premium, but are not, as a rule, paid for the first six months. At the end of that time they receive some small remuneration as improvers and assistants. Much depends on the special talent and adaptability of the worker. As improvers and assistants they may receive $1 or $2 a week. In stores, girls sometimes serve as saleswomen for a short time for nothing; but more often they are paid from the start, especially if it is known to the employer that they are dependent on themselves. Sometimes they start as check and parcel hands at $1.50 and $2 50 a week. In the large majority of employments there seems to be no definite regulations in regard to fixed increase of wages. Many employers, of course, try to keep them as...

Reviews

This book is definitely not straightforward to get started on studying but extremely exciting to read. It is really simplistic but shocks in the 50 percent of the ebook. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
